

Code of Conduct

Action4Canada is a non-denominational, Christ-centred, Bible-believing organisation.

Our mission, first and foremost, is to help educate, equip and encourage Canadians and provide them resources to protect their rights and freedoms. As well as let them know that we care about them and are here to support them.

It is of the utmost importance therefore, that everyone involved with Action4Canada always conducts themselves in a professional manner, in both appearance and demeanour.

As a representative of Action4Canada, you must maintain the integrity of the organization and not besmirch, malign or discredit Action4Canada employees, volunteers or campaigns. Further, you cannot solicit members in order to create a new organization or group.

We want to build trust with everyone that we interact with so that they will be open to receive the information that we are providing them. We ask that you be respectful, understanding, empathetic, supportive and appreciative of the position that many Canadians are in right now. Whether elected officials or fellow citizens.

We ask that you be calm, friendly, polite and do not engage in any conversation that would be considered argumentative or become heated. We do not condone antagonistic, demeaning, bullying, or judgemental behaviour in words or approach. We also ask that you agree to not engage in any physically, verbally and/or emotionally threatening or abusive behaviour, at any time when representing Action4Canada.
